UnUsUaL sets its sights

Four new exhibition halls were completed and handed over to Singex Venues Pte Ltd in the last quarter of 2005. With the completion of the additional halls, Singapore Expo now has four halls of 10,000sqm each further complementing their six existing halls. The added halls collectively bring the total floor area offered by Singapore Expo to a massive 100,000sqm of assured event space.

Singex Venues appointed UnUsUaL Developments to be their technical service provider for two of their new halls, specifically for Halls 8 and 10, UnUsUaL Developments, the newest addition to the UnUsUaL Group of Companies, is the venue management division equipped with the technical expertise of building acoustics and sound reinforcement the venue management division equipped with the technical expertise of building acoustics and sound reinforcement the venue management division equipped with the sound, lighting and visual equipment implemented in both the Halls engineering. UnUsUaL Developments installed the sound, lighting and visual equipment implemented in both the Halls.

The MAX Pavilion

Hall 10, which is now designated as The MAX Pavilion, is a functional, flexible and futuristic multi-purpose event hall and auditorium and is ideal for meetings, seminars, conferences, congresses, concerts and other special events that may require a large-scale venue.

UnUsUaL had installed The Max Pavilion with a state-of-the-art sound and lighting systems, and with a fully equipped simultaneous interpretation system along with LED Videowalls and graphic boards. The decision of choosing the top-end EV Compact Array for its main sound reinforcement system now enables The MAX Pavilion to be a high-end venue for large scale music concerts as well. In fact UnUsUaL itself became one of the first clients of The MAX Pavilion, utilising the venue for Michael Bolton's concert, The Mayday "Final Home" Concert, and the 5566 Singapore Concert where the audience review of the MAX Pavilion as well as the sound, light and visual systems were given the thumbs up. Another event that UnUsUaL was involved in was the Herbalife gathering, which too was held at The Max Pavilion, thus re-affirming the flexibility of the venue.

Its lighting inventory features no less than fifty-two state-of-art Martin Professional and Studio Due intelligent lighting projectors. An impressive Barco LED Videowall, Eiki 10K projectors and 63" Plasma display panels puts the MAX Pavilion's video system in line with top international venues. Other special features of The MAX Pavilion include its flexibility - with drape lines to partition Hall according to audience size and

modular platforms for different seating arrangements.

The MAX Pavilion can seat 7,000 persons in a theatre-style tiered seating approach, thus allowing for uncompromised viewing from any location. The MAX Pavilion can be easily converted into any seating configuration, or even completely cleared out to allow for any megaexhibition that will require all 10 halls at Singapore Expo!

A technical marvel on its own, UnUsUaL outfitted Hall 8 with a similar top-end EV Compact array sound reinforcement system and Martin Professional intelligent lighting. A full video system was also installed by UnUsUaL comprising Eiki 10K projectors and multiple 42" and 50" Plasma display panels. The highest technical feature in Hall 8's visual deliverance is the show of multiple Lighthouse LED Videowalls inside the venue.

Though the Hall is used mainly for exhibitions, on Sundays it converts into a House of Worship, and used for services by the City Harvest Church. With full capacity in the Hall at its services, the four sets of Lighthouse

LED Videowalls play a vital role in portraying and conveying the messages and images to the worshippers.
