ROCK LEGEND ERIC BURDON PERFORMS WITH DYNACORD® COBRA™

Rock legend Eric Burdon made the acquaintance of the Dynacord Cobra compact line-array system at a show in Haslach, Germany. Johannes Moeck of Badensound introduced them.

Haslach/Straubing, Germany (July 2004): The town hall in the city of Haslach in Baden-Württemberg has a reputation among sound specialists for being a difficult venue 'blessed' with an enormous reverberation time. Badensound were entrusted with the task of handling the sound reinforcement for the Eric Burdon concert on the 18th July, 2004 - a particularly tricky commission. Johannes Moeck, MD of the Renchen-based company commented: "I know the hall only too well. Even when the audience is over a thousand strong and the place is packed to the rafters, it seems to make scant difference to the reverberation time. We had to come up with an answer."

The answer was the Dynacord Cobra-4, a system that has proved its value time and again in concert halls throughout Europe, and the gig by ex-Animals legend Eric Burdon (of 'House of the Rising Sun' fame) was acclaimed by critics and public alike. Moeck remembers: "Before the concert, I sat down with the Eric Burdon Band's soundman, talked him through the system on a laptop and invited him to make any changes he liked. After a short soundcheck, he replied: "Don't change anything — your system sounds great!" In fact during the concert, all he did was tweak the Master EQ somewhat tentatively. The sound was absolutely fantastic — and in this hall of all places!"

Which only goes to show, there are no halls with bad acoustics — it's just a question of finding the right sound system...
