EV® X-LINE™ SUB BASS EXTRAVAGANZA FOR KORN IN THE U.K.

Nu-Metal rock pioneers Korn played a sell-out gig at the London Apollo using the EV X-Line line array loudspeaker system in an unprecedented configuration: a 1:1 ratio of line-array cabinets to subwoofers.

The system was designed by Chris Marsh of Major Tom, who described it as "Phenomenal! Korn is predominantly about strong low-end frequencies, so they used every bit of the energy in the subs. This was the first time I'd put together a system like this. It was incredibly loud!"

With (10) EV XvIs high-output cabinets per side, and (10) X-subs per side, Marsh admitted that he was glad that Korn had their own sound engineer to mix the show, commenting, "That kind of level hurts."

Major Tom has also been using X-Line at the Belfast Odyssey Arena, where their annual indoor festival is being headlined by the legendary Bob Dylan. Marsh has set up a very different system, using (8) Xvls and (2) Xvlt enclosures per side and a mere (14) X-subs distributed at left, right and center. The side hangs each consist of (4) Xvls and 2 Xvlts boxes, with a number of EV Xi-1152 boxes for in-fills, out-fills and side-fills.
